SCOUT COUNCIL AND OFFICERS ARE NAMED

PROMINENT CITIZENS NAMED ON SCOUT COUNCIL AND OFFICERS NAMED AT MEETING TODAY.

GO TO HEADQUARTERS

Names of Council Members and Officers Will Be Sent to Scout Headquarters To Secure Recognition.

At a mass meeting of the business men of the city and others interested in the matter at the city hall last evening, the members of the Boy Scout council for Jamesville were named, and at a meeting this morning the officers of the council were elected.

The meeting last night was called by Mayor Nichols and there was a large number of the leaders in the movement and interested citizens present. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Nichols and officers for the meeting were elected as follows: Mr. Richardson, chairman; C. W. Reeder, secretary.

It was moved and carried that a committee of two be appointed to nominate the local Boy Scout Council and C. W. Reeder and Prof. John Arbuthnot were named as the members of the committee. They submitted the following list of names as members of the council, which were approved and the council appointed. They are:

City officials: John C. Nichols, mayor; James A. Paterson, city treasurer; C. L. Fife, municipal judge; Dr. S. H. Duckmaster, president school board; Geo. M. Appleby, chief of police; Roy M. Cummings, city clerk; H. L. Maxfield, city attorney; Aldermen E. J. Schmidley, C. B. Evans, J. H. Connell, Geo. O. Buchholz, H. G. Shurtliff, Wm. Hall, J. F. Donahoe.

Other members: David Atwood, Dr. Wayne Munn, C. H. Lamb, H. A. Mooser, N. L. Carr, Joseph Connor, Thomas Walsh, John Souther, George Kinball, W. J. Thiele, Francis Grant, S. C. Cobb, A. E. Matheson, C. J. Hendricks, Henry F. Carpenter, S. C. Burkhart, D. D. Bennett, C. W. Reeder, H. G. Gossin, Harry Garbutt, James Gregory, Geo. S. Parker, M. P. Richardson, W. H. Dougherty, Prof. John Arbuthnot, Harry Rouse, Rev. Henry Whitman, Michael Hayes, Wm. Bladen, Frank H. Jackson, Harry Haggart, A. E. Bingham, Edward Dues, H. C. Buell, J. C. Kline, Dr. J. P. Thorne, and Dr. J. F. Pumber.

The local council were called to gather this morning at the Knights of Columbus rooms in the Jackson block at half past nine and the following officers were elected: M. P. Richardson, president; Dr. S. H. Duckmaster, vice president; H. J. Hancock, treasurer; C. W. Reeder, secretary; W. H. Dougherty and Prof. John Arbuthnot, recruiting officers and scout commissioners; and David Atwood, H. G. Gossin, and Francis Grant, commissioners.

The names of the members of the local council and the officers will be sent to the Boy Scout headquarters in New York City, where they will receive approval and the local order of Boy Scouts will receive official recognition by the national organization. At that time the badges will be sent for the Scouts and further information and instructions received.

At present the city has been divided into districts according to the division of the wards. As soon as official recognition is received the boys will be further organized according to the divisions into patrols and troops with their own officers appointed by the commissioners and with the Scout Master at the head of each division.

One of the problems which is presented to the local council is that of a place of meeting. It is thought by the executive committee that it would be more convenient if there could be a meeting place in each ward as well as some central meeting place. This would make the matter of organization and discipline easier and would also make possible the accomplishment of more work. These places are yet to be decided upon.

Everything now appears favorable for the Scout movement and work will be rushed in order to have a squad of the Scouts in the grand military parade on the Fourth of July. Some sixty boys are being drilled by Capt. Jacko and are learning the tactics as fast as can be expected. The suits will be secured later.

CIRCUS PARADE WAS MOST COMPLETE ONE

Barnum and Bailey Live Up To Their Reputation With Today's Shows.

Was there ever anything quite so merry as the circus parade? Thousands of happy faced men, women and children filled the sidewalks and crowded into the streets to witness the promised pleasure, and Barnum & Bailey lived up to the expectations aroused.

The parade which was advertised for ten o'clock came in near being on time as is possible when the size of it is taken into account. The parade is a feature of the city where the parade has been abolished is to be pitied.

Judging from the parade, the Barnum & Bailey show is about the best in the business. They have everything they advertise and display their attractions to good advantage. The bugle corps which led the parade was a new feature. The cages, wagons and allegorical floats were now and bright, a veritable glitter of gold and silver. The horses were in this condition, and received much praise for their beauty and attractiveness.

A group of tournament knights led the parade, a body of trippers and herds followed. Then the band, chariots and a number of green, red and gold wagons from which came weird voices of the desert and jungle. Ten smart looking tandem teams followed splendidly managed by approximately gowned women. More animal wagons followed by a group of equestrians and equestriennes, some astride and others in the regulation side saddle, the riders being garbed in the costumes of the Court of France during the reign of Louis XIV.

Then came the four herd of 20 odd elephants and a drove of camels. A float containing a gathering of pretty girls in various attractive gowns followed the camels. A number of open cages, showing behind the iron bars a collection of lions, tigers, polar bears and other wild animals, proved an interesting and instructive feature of the parade.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the afternoon performance began before an immense crowd of people. The grand entrance was a gorgeous spectacle of oriental splendor, fairly dazzling to the eye which called forth warm and continued approval.

Before the applause had subsided, in lumbered the three herds of elephants who take their places in the three rings and proceed to accomplish all manner of impossibilities. A hearty cheer of encouragement greeted the regiment of clowns, which closed the hippodrome act.

The zoological collection of the menagerie is a highly entertaining exhibition. The baby animals amused and interested those who crowded around their enclosure. The three sky-scraping giraffes, caused no end of amazement. The final performance will be given at 8 o'clock tonight. The doors will open an hour earlier, thus affording an opportunity for a careful inspection of the menagerie wonders.

GAZETTE WANT AD FOUND LOST DOG

And Incidentally It Also Solved the Problem of Northwestern Railroad Officials.

Indirectly, a Gazette want ad, found a lost dog for its owner and solved a problem for local officials of the Northwestern railroad. The lost dog was an Alredale puppy belonging to Dr. J. P. Brown, superintendent of the State School for the Blind.

On last Wednesday night George McLean, a local dog fancier, shipped to Minneapolis two Alredale terriers, putting them in a crate and sending them over the American Express company's line. Earl Hodge, night transfer man for the express company at the depot, put the crate on the train. A few minutes after the train had pulled out he noticed an Alredale dog, similar to those in the crate, running about the depot. He, thinking one of the dogs had broken out of the crate, pursued the puppy and, after about fifteen or twenty minutes, captured the canine and tied a rope around its neck. The dog was put on a later train and sent to Minneapolis.

On Friday last week Agent Alvah Hemmens of the Northwestern railroad received a communication from the express baggage agent of the road at Minneapolis, stating that a dog sent from Janesville was being held there, and asked what disposition should be made of it. Mr. Hemmens immediately wired back that the dog belonged to the baggage agent at Minneapolis by Mr. McLean, but was informed that there had been two dogs in the crate. He immediately commenced an investigation and Hodge finally admitted he had put the dog on the car, thinking it had been left here by mistake.

Meanwhile, Dr. Brown had advertised in the Gazette for the dog, and in looking over the want columns, Mr. Hemmens noticed the ad and called up Dr. Brown. The description of the dog at Minneapolis tallied with that of the dog lost by Dr. Brown, and Mr. Hemmens sent word to the general baggage agent at Minneapolis to send the dog here as its owner had been found. The dog was returned here on Monday after a trip covering over six hundred miles. Dr. Brown valued the animal at $25.

Has Poetry Enough; Wants Wood. We have on hand more poetry than we can find room for. What we need is more wood. It is true the poetry is pretty wooden, but it doesn't stink out the warmth of oak and pine. We therefore prefer an ordinary load of wood to a cord of poetry.—Adams (Ga.) Enterprise.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Raven, the St. Louis Browns' new first baseman, comes from the Three I League.

Manager Tommy of the Boston Red Sox has benched Steinmetz and placed Ferguson back on third base.

Catcher Arthur Wilson is doing fine work behind the bat for the Giants, and is also hitting when bingles are needed.

Out of four hundred youngsters roped in by the major leagues had full only seventy remain in the first set.

The Cincinnati Reds show a sample of winning goods now and then, but the sample seems to be all that they have got.

"Uncle Cy" Young if the Naps, has made a good start and looks good enough to spread the foolery for some time yet.

Catcher Tom Madden of the Boston Red Sox has joined the Toledo team. Tom, with his rubber suit, looks to be the right party for the Mud Hogs.

LA FOLLETTE TO LA FOLLETTE.

Just how the candidacy of Senator La Follette is being handled in Washington is explained by the following dispatch from national headquarters to the New York Tribune.
"At the request of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin certain insurgent senators are circulating a petition addressed to Senator La Follette begging Senator La Follette to announce his candidacy for the presidency. Nor is this proceeding quite so strange as it may seem at first blush. It has long been a maxim of skillful politicians that when you wish to supply a demand and no demand exists, the first thing to be done is to make one. Thus far the petition has acquired three signatures—those of Mr. La Follette's three faithful lieutenants, Senators Chapp of Minnesota, Bristow of Kansas, and Bourne of Oregon.
"The fourth man approached was Senator Cummins of Iowa. He daily refused to sign the petition or to have anything to do with it. He said that in the first place he did not think there was any use complicating the political situation by such a step, inasmuch as there was not the slightest chance that Senator La Follette would be nominated even if he could be induced so far to sacrifice himself as to enter the race. Then, too, Senator Kenyon, a loyal insurgent in good and regular standing, would be running for reelection in Iowa next year, and he did not think it wise to do anything which would tend to split the party in Iowa, and so jeopardize Mr. Kenyon's success; and then there were several other reasons, each of which impressed him as quite sufficient to warrant his refusal.
"It was next shown to Senator Borah of Idaho. He said it was an extremely interesting paper, but he would not sign because he did not think it fair to Senator La Follette to urge him to make a useless sacrifice; nor did he think that Senator La Follette had urged his lieutenant to circulate the paper since him to waver in his opinion. It is confidently expected that better success will be met in the house, where there are several Wisconsin members who feel that they owe their political lives to the Wisconsin senator and who would sign their own death warrants at his bidding.
"The phenomenal ambition of the Wisconsin statesman is again in evidence.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

In reviewing the business situation throughout the country an eastern journal takes up the matter in the following manner and treats it in the abstract form.

"General business conditions have changed very slightly since the handing down of the supreme court decisions in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases. There has been small improvement in some lines of trade and recession in others. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion among financial and commercial interests before the decisions were rendered that the uncertainty as to the results was responsible for business stagnation. When they were finally announced the decisions were loudly applauded throughout the entire commercial world, and predictions were freely made that business would greatly improve as a result. The fact that business continues quiet should discourage no one. Large bodies move slowly. The lower court has not yet developed a plan whereby industrial corporations may conduct their affairs legally, as it has been directed to do, and this uncertainty may still be a deterring influence. However, there is no doubt that better business conditions will eventually follow the more hopeful sentiment now prevailing.
"Money is exceedingly abundant. It is estimated that the semi-annual disbursements to be made July 1 will this year approximate $235,000,000, a new high record. It is this abundance of money that more than anything else has to do with the strength and high prices prevailing in the securities markets. There has been heavy liquidation in commodities, and indications that prices will go still lower somewhat restrain the purchasing of supplies and materials. The buying is still from hand to mouth, particularly in the iron and steel industry. Railroads are making more inquiries for rails and equipment, and orders have increased to a slight extent. The big crops now in sight will render it imperative on the part of some of the important grain-carrying roads to make large equipment purchases. These orders must be placed soon if the needed cars and locomotives are to be on hand when the grain movement starts in the fall.
"The strength of this country's international monetary position is one of the striking features of the situation. American exports continue to increase at a remarkable rate, reaching last month a new high record of $153,201,278 against $131,083,890 for the corresponding period last year. The highest previous May record was in 1907, when the exports totaled $134,759,568. Imports are being held in check partly on account of quiet business and the more economical practices of the people of this country, and partly because American travelers abroad are discouraged from making extensive purchases in foreign lands by reason of the careful scrutiny of their effects upon their return by government agents. The result is the accumulation by this country of a very large trade balance.
CASTRO AGAIN.
Just at this time with President Diaz of Mexico a refugee from his native land, in Switzerland, and former President Castro of Venezuela reported to be hiding in the West Indies waiting for an opportunity to start another revolution to regain power in his country, it is interesting to note the effect upon Venezuela without Castro.
Somewhat more than two years ago Cipriano Castro became a man without a country. Repudiated by his own people, the former President of Venezuela was compelled to put the Atlantic ocean between himself and the western world. Acting in concert, the United States, France and Great Britain took means to see the Venezuelan well away from American waters. He went to Europe, and from time to time reports were current that he was conspiring to regain possession of the South American republic over which he had wielded hardly less than a dictatorship. As for Venezuela, all indications are to the effect that something like real order has come out of the political and international chaos which had prevailed during the Castro regime. President Gomez seems to have a complete understanding with the United States. Internal affairs are greatly improved, and relations with foreign nations, strained to the breaking point when the former President dominated the country, are now fairly amicable.
Under the circumstances, the return of Senator Castro can hardly be for the good of Latin America. Ambition may spur him on, and there is little doubt that he has abilities, even if they have been misdirected. But Venezuela is hardly anxious to go through renewed experiences such as almost ruined the nation as a factor in Pan-American affairs. The Caracas government would be neglecting its duty were it not to make every effort to learn the whereabouts of the one Venezuelan who more than any other seems to threaten the peace of the country. And it is no less gratifying that Washington will take measures to prevent any revolutionary act that might disturb the quiet to the south of the Panama canal.
Without some base of operation in the West Indies, Senator Castro's supposition attempt to regain his country would be effort wasted. Jammed will take good care that no support shall issue from there, and, as for Cuba, the government gives assurance that no Cuban port is to be turned into a rendezvous from where revolutionary expeditions can issue at the pleasure of those bent on upsetting Latin American conditions.
Should Senator Castro reach West Indian waters, his reception there is likely to be in line with what was noted when he left Venezuela. He is not wanted in the western world, it seems. The better sentiment appears to be that his retirement to private life should be permanent in order that Venezuela may work out her destiny unhindered.

Janesville is to have a military Fourth and the city authorities should see that it is a safe one as far as the discharge of the giant firecrackers and dynamite caps and cartridges is concerned. There will be plenty to do for the small boy without trying to blow his own head off.
The movement to place the Boy Scouts movement upon a firm basis is one which deserves the support of every citizen who has a boy or is interested in a boy that is growing up in the city.
Chicago is never happy as to crime unless it can have a genuine sensation or so. Just at present it has a couple of murder trials, a sensational, disgusting "suicide" trial, and still its gun men and vice crusades.
London is in feverish anticipation of the coronation and its resulting influx of American gold. King George can only be crowned but once, but he means to make it a good crowning while he is about it.
One result of the visit of the Milwaukee Merchants' and Manufacturers' association to Janesville is the promise that the train service between Milwaukee and Janesville is to be improved.
More disasters follow the race of "bird men" in France. Now comes an authority on the subject and while he admits the "bird men" are here to stay, still he predicts that racing by aeroplanes will have to cease.
Landing rooms for the Fourth of July visitors continues to keep the clerk busy at the headquarters. That and handling out postal cards.
They call the Queen of England "Dowdy" because she does not care for dress and the requirements that fashion sets upon the rich if they will follow the dictates of society.
It would be a good thing to have the barbed wire cut at least before the Fourth of July and it is suggested to the adherents of the different wards they look after it.
If there is a small boy in town that can not tell you just this minute the first circus train arrived this morning he must be sick, or going to be sick. Try him and see.
It must be lots of fun to be hauled around in a cage as the wild animals in the circus are. Think of the Polar bear today and be happy even if it is hot.
The deeper down they get in this Maine matter the more convincing becomes the fact that the vessel did not sink just out of meanness.
The congressional sugar investigation is like a fly testing of the sweetness of the sugar bowl.
Chicago gas consumers are complaining that the reason their bills are so big is because the gas companies use fast meters.
Did you borrow your neighbor's boy or take your nephew or niece to the circus today, if you had no "chicks" of your own?
PRESS COMMENTS.
Another Complaint.
Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The committee appointed to redistrict the state into assembly and a national districts has decided to leave the districts in this county unchanged. There was hope at one time that a reapportionment might be made on the basis of population which would divide the county more nearly into equal divisions, but it has been decided to let the present divisions stand.
Too Darned Bad.
Rockford Register-Gazette: Claiming that he has had no socks for twenty years but that he gave his wife considerable money for personal adornment, a wealthy farmer of Indiana brought suit for divorce. Very pathetic, yet it seems that he might have schemed out a pair in some way or other if he had been dead set on it.
More Arguments.
Oshkosh Northwestern: The price of wheat at Minneapolis at the present time ranges just about two cents per bushel below the price for the same cereal at Winnipeg. From this it would appear that American farmers, even more than the farmers of Canada, have reason to wish for the prompt ratification of the reciprocity agreement.
Teddy Effeminate?
Milwaukee Daily News: Who would ever think of the colonel, THE colonel, the greatest living ex-president, as an old woman. Yet there comes the esteemed Columbus, (R. C.) State referring to him as the "dewy president."
Cruel Judge.
Rockford Register-Gazette: For maltreating his wife an Atlantic man has been sentenced to kiss her once a day. And here we have been educated to believe that the southern lads are hours of transcendent loveliness.
Another White Hope.
Wausau Record-Herald: Jack Johnson tried to break the speed limit in London but broke his automobile instead. Scotland Yard will break the big negro's neck.
It's Different Now.
Madison State Journal: Of course our ancestors were healthy men. They chewed plug tobacco and microbes in the water preferred to hunker in the depths of the old oaken bucket.
They Surely Are.
Milwaukee Free Press: Affairs are going to the demagogue howlows when the lobster palaces of the Great White Way are unable to withstand the attentions of bankruptcy.

Get Busy Girls!
Ashland Daily Crisis: What is the trouble with Ashland young ladies. But few marriage licenses are being issued, and this the month of June.
At the Old Stand.
Lake Geneva Herald: Cupid is still doing business in the same old dimly lighted parlor.
Some Small Gain.
Sheboygan Journal: The best feature about that Atlantic sailors' strike is that it may prevent some of our undesirable citizens from getting home.
Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.
WIRELESS TO THE BRAIN.
At the dedication of the Itosorvald dam in Arizona a few weeks ago it was stated not only would the water from this one of the biggest dams in the world fertilize thousands of acres of semiarid land, but—
The power derived from the fall of its waters would be made to light the city of Phoenix and turn the wheels of its industries, seventy-five miles away. That would have been wonderful indeed fifty years ago.
But it is only half the feat of transmission involved in lighting the city of Syracuse, N. Y., bringing light and power over a thin wire from the harnesses forces of Niagara falls, 150 miles away.
Electricity has become the obedient slave of civilization, taking the place of the shackled slaves of the older day.
One by one masterful man is hitching his machines to the forces of earth and air and water. The time is coming when he will be almost free from manual labor, giving him leisure and strength for the exercise of those qualities of mind and heart that shall transform the world.
But—
There is a more wonderful thing than all this advance of science, and it will always be more wonderful.
More mysterious and more powerful than the transmission of light and heat over a slender wire is the wireless transmission of the light of human intellect and the power of human fancy that comes to the brain of man.
From where?
We do not know where the great power house is located, but we do know that somewhere is a vastly greater power than puny Niagara; somewhere is resident a tremendous reservoir; somewhere is a mighty source of intellect and of love.
There is, however, this difference: The more kilowatts electric you use the less you have to use. There is just so much manufactured. When that is gone all is gone.
But—
The strange thing about the use of the intellectual and moral kilowatts is that the more you use the more you have to use.
Do you not see you are getting outside the realm of science—outside material things and their laws?
Now—
When the force that comes over the wire to the dynamo stops, the dynamo stops. But you cannot predict from that material law that when the force that comes over the wireless to the brain stops coming the mind will forever stop.
The mind is different.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS
By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist
SUGGESTIONS FOR FASTING
As sudden changes in diet are under all circumstances to be avoided, a fast should begin gradually, dropping breakfast for three days, then supper for three days, then drop the third meal. Drink two quarts daily of lemonade without sugar, for five days. In the average case in which fasting has not been tried before. On the morning of the sixth day eat an apple or a quarter of a pineapple, excluding the fiber; for dinner two or three tablespoons of rice, slowly, with cream only, and in the evening a baked potato or a slice of toast or a dish of prunes. The quantity may be doubled the second day, and the third the usual diet resumed for dinner only. Thus the regular diet will be reached the fifth day, and the benefit will be greater than from an unregulated fast. It is difficult to restrain the appetite the first three or four days, but thereafter easy. Fasting is not starving. The attitude of the mind and the surroundings are very important. Much depends upon circumstances, and these suggestions apply only to the average cases and will obviate the mistakes ordinarily made by those who try fasting without professional advice. A longer fast without advice is not advisable, though there are many cases in which a well regulated fast for 30 days or even longer will do more to eliminate disease conditions than any other means, but careful regulation is necessary for safety and the best results.

Uncle Walt
THE POET PHILOSOPHER
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)
By WALT MASON.
Beneath this stone there lies at rest a man who always did his best. The gods ordained that he should move along a lonely, humble groove. For him there was no wealth or fame, he bore no proud ancestral name, no palace doors for him swung wide, but in his hut he lived and died. His years were many and his toil brought riches from the stubborn soil, but all that wealth to them was brought who owned the land whereon he wrought. The fashioned lumber and the boards made shelter for the lowly folk. He fed the cows and herded swine that other men might nobly die. From break of dawn till close of day he toiled along his weary way, and took his earnings in his hand. His feet were seamed with bramble scars, that others might have motor cars. This strip of ground is his reward; 'twas given by his overlord; it's six feet long and two feet wide, and here they brought him when he died. To labor hard for fifty years, endure the hardships and the tears, to have no grateful hours of rest, to toil and sweat, and do your best, to grind and toil and do your best, and at the last to get—a gravel! Poor souls that in the darkness grope, and weave and spin and have no hope!
DR. W. E. STONE GETS DIVORCE
President of Purdue University Is Granted a Decree at Lafayette.
Lafayette, Ind., June 20.—After waiting four years for his wife to repent and return to her home here, Dr. Winthrop Ellsworth Stone, president of Purdue university, obtained a divorce from Victoria H. Stone, who in April, 1907, became infatuated with an East Indian religious cult called the Yogi philosophy and left her husband and children here to follow its teachings. Her departure at that time created a sensation, as she was a leader in society and literary circles. According to the complaint, she is now living at Constance, Germany, with a number of the followers of the cult.
U. S. SENATOR, 67, TO MARRY
F. E. Warren of Wyoming Soon Will Wed Splinter of 35.
Washington, June 20.—Francis E. Warren of Wyoming surprised his fellow senators when he announced he was to marry in the near future Miss Clara Le Baron Morgan of New York and Washington.
Miss Morgan is a daughter of the late John L. Morgan of Groton, Conn., and is about thirty-five years old. In recent years she has spent her winters in Washington with her uncle, former Associate Justice Brown of the Supreme court, and is well known in Washington society.
Senator Warren is sixty-seven years old and has been a widower nine years.

NEW THEORY ON MAINE WRECK
Heat May Have Exploded Boilers After Main Upheaval.
Havana, June 20.—By further pumping today the water in the cofferdam surrounding the wreck of the battleship Maine was lowered until it is now fifteen feet below the surface of the water in the harbor.
The work revealed the fact that the explosion did damage to the middle section of the vessel. The port deck is humped up and the side of the ship beneath blown out. This may mean that the boilers were exploded by the heat of flames which followed the main upheaval.
On the main deck was found the bones of two arms and the remains of a man's foot to which part of the shoe was still clinging. These ghastly relics lay to the starboard of the after-turret. In the captain's cabin was a rubber coat, a rubber strap, and sundry other articles of the same material. They had deteriorated little during their long immersion.
MANY ARE REPORTED DROWNED
But One Member of Mississippi House Party Is Saved.
Natchez, Miss., June 20.—Several members of the family and guests of former Associate Justice Truly of the Mississippi supreme court are reported to have drowned in Holmes lake, near Fayette, Miss. Judge Truly was the only member of the party to escape, it is reported.
Mrs. Truly, the five children of Judge Truly, Miss Halley Burr of St. Louis and C. D. Culley of Fayette are those reported to have drowned.
The party was rowing on the lake in three skiffs when a terrific storm suddenly broke. The report was brought to Fayette by a negro. The lake is twenty miles from Fayette. The guests were attending a house party at Judge Truly's bungalow.
RANCHER HANGED BY FOUR MEN.
Perpetrators Are Jailed at Valentine to Prevent Rescue.
Cody, Neb., June 20.—Charles Sellers, a young ranchman living near Cody, was taken from his home by four young men and hanged to a telephone pole. The four perpetrators, who made no attempt at concealment, were arrested. The lynching was caused by trouble between Sellers and a sister of one of the lynchers. Sellers was called to the door of his home, covered by revolvers and the hanging followed. Fearing a rescue, officers took the hangers in an automobile to Valentine, where they were placed in jail.

A "CURE" FOR BALDNESS
The above expression is one which is used frequently in connection with hair preparations. Just exactly what is meant by it in each instance is a question. Baldness is not a disease, and hence does not permit of a cure. It is a result invariably of a cure, and hence does not permit of a cure. It is a result invariably of a cure, and hence does not permit of a cure. It is a result invariably of a cure, and hence does not permit of a cure.
Approaching baldness, seen in falling hair, may always be checked and if the hair follicles are not atrophied the hair may be induced again to grow. This is accomplished by regular applications of Newbrow's Herpicide which cleanses the scalp and kills the dandruff germ. The destruction of the germ does away with the accumulations of sear skin and thus eliminates the most common enemy to beautiful hair.
Soft, glossy, fluffy hair cannot grow on a scalp infested with dandruff any more than a delicate plant can grow on an ash heap. The scalp must be kept clean and free from dandruff. The best remedy for doing this is Newbrow's Herpicide which receives the highest endorsements from professional men, the stage and the best people everywhere.
Herpicide is sold and guaranteed in one dollar size bottles by all druggists. Applications obtained at all first class barber shops and hair dressing parlors. Address The Herpicide Co., Dept. 12, Detroit, Mich., enclosing 10c in postage or silver for sample and free booklet, J. P. Baker, special agent.

Will Aid The Work

The work of the collectors for the Subscription Department to "The Gazette" can be very greatly assisted if the patrons of the paper will have their payments ready at the time the collector calls. Most of our friends have assisted nicely in this connection and their promptness is appreciated. With several hundred calls to make each month, it is no small task and where it is necessary to make several return calls, the work is greatly increased. The collectors make the rounds of the city on the following dates, or near those dates:

E. R. APPLIN WAS ARRAIGNED TODAY

Alleged Thief of Team and Wagon From M. Goodman Livery Brought Into Municipal Court Today.

E. R. Applin, tinting plumber, late of Clinton, who is alleged to have stolen a team of horses and a light wagon, which he rented from the M. Goodman Livery, was arraigned in municipal court this morning to answer to the charges and waived the right of preliminary examination. Under the statutes he could not immediately enter his plea and the hearing was adjourned to next Monday morning. However, in the meantime, if Applin desires to be brought to trial immediately, he may, by filing a petition asking to be allowed to waive the right of hearing, secure immediate trial and enter his plea.

The team and wagon are today at Woodstock, Ill., where they were driven yesterday by Thomas Goodman, a son of the liveryman and D. J. Barry. The animals were left at Woodstock today to rest and someone will go there tomorrow and bring them the rest of the way to Janesville. It is thought he will plead guilty.

TO OPEN BIDS FOR SEWER CONTRACTS

Street Assessment Committee Will Consider Bids of Contractors For Proposed Sewer Extensions Tomorrow.

Bids for the work on sewers to be done in this city during the coming summer and fall will be opened tomorrow afternoon at the city hall by the street assessment committee. About three miles of sewer work will be added to that already done in the various districts this year. Several of the contractors who will make bids for the jobs are in the city today conferring with City Engineer C. V. Kereh regarding the specifications and plans, among the number being Mr. Millholl of Kaukauna, of the firm that had charge of the work last year. The committee has no authority to award the contract, merely making the recommendations to the common council, which then takes action on the matter. It is generally understood, however, that the recommendations of the committee are followed by the city fathers.

SEVERAL ACCIDENTS MARRED CIRCUIS DAY

Little Daughter of James Buchanan Run Over by Horse and Surrey—Boy Knocked From Bicycle.

Several minor accidents were reported today as a result of the circus crowds. The little daughter of James Buchanan was run over in front of the Myers hotel by a surrey driven by Mrs. Ed. Welch and was badly bruised. She was taken into the hotel and medical aid summoned, but it is thought no bones were broken.

During the hour of the parade this morning, little George Mills, son of W. C. Mills, Riverside street, became separated from his parents in the crowd. He was taken care of by Special Officer Hallen, who took the boy into a nearby store. The lad was later restored to his parents.

Clifford Arndt, 11 years old, who was riding a bicycle, was run over by the Union Pacific Ten company's wagon at the corner of South Main and Court streets this morning, the wheels passing over his head and body. One of his eyes was blackened and he was bruised about the head, but no bones were broken. He had a miraculous escape from more serious or fatal injuries. The wheel was demolished. The boy was taken to his home at 108 South Franklin street and his injuries attended to.

In anticipation of a big day today, during the time the circus is in the city, special arrangements were made at police headquarters for the occasion and four extra policemen, besides the members of the regular force, were put on the streets throughout the day. All of the night force, too, are on duty while the big show remains here, to assist in handling the crowds on the streets and to prevent accidents and trouble as much as is possible. Little trouble, however, was experienced through the day, as the crowd in the city today was not the usual circus day crowd. While a large number were on the streets this morning, the average usually reached on the advent of a big tented show was not reached, the delegations from the country and nearby towns being smaller. Special precautions were taken by the officers today and a sharp lookout kept for pickpockets and other shavers of that ilk. Former Sheriff Ira U. Maher, Deputy Sheriff William Dull, Ed. Hallen and Dennis McGinley are assisting the local force today as special policemen.

ILLINOIS OFFICER ONCE LIVED HERE

Constable James Root, Who Shot Man at South Beloit, Saturday, Formerly Lived in Janesville.

James H. Root, constable of South Beloit, who shot Amos Middleton of Rockford, in South Beloit, Saturday morning from the county jail at Rockford as the authorities there found there was no charge on which they could hold him. Root surrendered to the Rockford authorities immediately after the shooting Saturday afternoon. Self-defense is given as the cause for the act.

Root formerly lived in this city, working here as a carpenter for a number of years. He is well known here and throughout the state. At one time he was a member of the Janesville Light Guards and was one of the crack shots of the company and the State National Guard, with the rifle. He was one of a team of ten men chosen one year to take part in the national rifle tournament.

WAS SHOT IN EYE WITH AN AIR-GUN

Frank Murray, Son of W. A. Murray, Narrowly Escaped Loss of Sight As Result of Playmate's Carelessness.

Frank, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Murray, met with a painful accident and came near losing the sight of his right eye as the result of an accident about a week ago in which young Murray was shot in the eye with an air-gun.

A companion had been playing in the next yard with the gun, shooting at birds. The other youth, who held the air-gun, came to within three or four feet of the place where Murray was sitting, and fired. The shot struck the Murray boy directly over the right eye and lacerated the flesh. Had it been half an inch nearer the eye it would have entered the center of the eye ball. Dr. Mills dressed the wound. It is not thought the sight of the eye will be impaired.

LONDON IS GAY WITH "TOMMY ATKINS" IN FOR BIG PARADES

Holkar Bahadur of Indore, H. H. Maharajah Sahiba of Indore, H. H. Nawab Sultan Jahan Begum of Bhopal, H. H. Maharajah Samurjo Singh of Jodhpur and Sir Sahur Singh Rajah Dhiraj of Shahpura.

Those native princes and princesses are all entitled to royal salutes in their own territories, which are protected, feudal or vassal states of the Empire of India. The Gackwar of Baroda is greeted with 21 guns, the Begum of Bhopal, the Maharajah of Indore and the Maharajah of Gwalior with 19 guns each, the Maharajah of Bikanir and Patiala with 17 guns each, the Maharajah of Indor with 15 guns, the Maharajah of Koch Behar with 13 guns, and the Thakur Sahib of Gondal, the Rajah of Rajpalia and the Rajah of Pudukkottai with 11 guns each.

The prodigious value of the jewelry worn by the participants in the numerous state functions connected with the coronation has created a considerable demand for policies of insurance covering the period of the festivities. One of the Indian princes took out a policy for the sum of $125,000 and in another instance a visitor from East India paid premiums on jewelry valued at between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

The risks covered in most cases comprise transit to and from India and insurance against theft while in England, and some of the companies made it a condition of accepting the risk that the valuables should be deposited in approved strong rooms while not in actual use. The premiums demanded were invariably high.

Excellent arrangements for dealing with accidents and injuries occurring in the enormous crowd of spectators along the routes of the coronation processions have been made under the auspices of the ambulance department of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. This society has placed 2,000 trained members of its London ambulance corps at the disposal of the police, besides a large number of units from the provinces and the colonies, who came to London specially to assist.

In the event of an urgent call, the society has no fewer than 20,000 members within quick telegraphic communication, all of whom are trained ambulance men or nursing sisters.

Special arrangements for the expedition of press dispatches from the triforium of Westminster Abbey during the progress of the coronation ceremony, have been made by the Postmaster-General. Pneumatic tubes are erected from the gallery to a temporary telegraph office outside, whence the messages are to be taken to the telegraph room of the House of Commons outside, at that point a large staff of skilled telegraph operators, capable of dealing with dispatches in various languages, is to be stationed, ready to forward the telegrams to all parts of the world.

Does the World Think?

Man is evidently made for thought; this is his whole dignity and his whole merit; his whole duty is to think as he ought. Now the order of thought is to begin with self, and with its author and its end. Now of what think the world? Never of these things, but of dancing, playing the lute, singing, making verses, tilting at the ring, etc., or fighting, making ourselves kings, without thinking what it is to be a king or what to be a man.—Pascal.

Overcoming the Difficulty.

There is no worse species of misery than an unjust way of making bargains, where equity is disregarded on both sides. All bargains, in which one party strives to make gain by the loss of the other, are here condemned.—Calvin.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

TO CRITICISE a member of one's family to an outsider is to hurl a boomerang.

That is, the blow which is intended for another is practically certain to come back upon oneself.

But how many people apparently fail to realize this! I am thinking especially of a young girl—otherwise a very likable young person—who knows about frankly saying that she dislikes her younger sister and commends her the most disagreeable and bad tempered person she has ever known.

I know who thinks that people will respect her for this frankness and sympathize with her for her misfortune in having such a sister.

As a matter of fact, the result is almost always a feeling of repugnance towards her for having violated the code of family loyalty and an instinctive mental championship of the sister who is thus attacked.

One naturally wonders what the sister would have to say for herself if she chose to air the family disagreements instead of maintaining, as she does, a most discreet silence on the subject.

One recalls that Lucy when aroused is not a particularly sweet tempered person herself and very much suspects that the "scrapping" is not at all one-sided.

The two girls may be equally to blame for the unbecomingly of the younger sister may really be the unbecomingly person she is made out to be, but it is she who gets most of the sympathy because she knows enough to hold her tongue on the subject of family failings to outsiders.

And that result is inevitable.

Family loyalty is a tradition which the world respects and which she who violates it, no matter how good her reason, is running his head against the blank wall of tradition and is mighty likely to get bruised if no more than that.

To have in your own family persons whom you would have chosen as intimate friends, even if there had been no tie of blood between you, is the best of good fortune. Family loyalty is easy then.

To have in your family persons whom you would never have spoken to twice if they had not been your relatives, persons even whose every act irritates you and rubs you the wrong way, is one of the greatest misfortunes that can befall one. Family loyalty then becomes difficult, but by no means impossible.

You need not associate with these uncongenial relatives any more than absolutely necessary, but you can keep your tongue chained in regard to their faults.

And if you do not want to throw a boomerang of criticism which will probably hurt you more than them, you will surely do so.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

Remember to give the baby plenty of water to drink. Even a small baby suffers from thirst. A wholesome breakfast dish, or in fact good for any meal for a child is wheat fresh from the granary. Boak it over night and cook for a day or longer, until the kernels are soft. Serve with good milk. This is food unequalled for nutrition and is usually liked by children and grown-ups.

Pine Apple Dessert.—Make an angel food in a sheet and cut in rounds the size of a slice of canned pineapple. Arrange a slice of cake in a stemmed glass, pour over it a little of the pineapple juice that has been sweetened and flavored with lemon juice, then place a piece of pineapple on the cake and dip on a little whipped cream decorated with a cherry.

Try the combination of prunes and kumquats, the tiny Japanese oranges. Cook together after slicing the kumquats.

Cucumber Pickles.—When the cucumber vines begin to bear plentifully put down a few for winter, using the following recipe:

Take a pint of salt, a pound of dry mustard and a gallon of vinegar; mix all together and add the cucumbers daily, fresh from the vines, after washing them carefully and keeping a weight over them. These pickles will be crisp and good for a year.

Bavarian Cream.—Put a quarter of a package of gelatin into a cup of raspberry juice and let it stand until softened. Then add a cup and a half of raspberry juice, the juice of half a lemon and cup of granulated sugar. Stir in a chilled bowl until the mixture begins to set, then fold in a cup and a half of whipped cream. Place in a mold and serve either plain or with whipped cream.

PRACTICAL MODEL FOR SERGE, MOHAIR OF LINEN.

White suits are extremely fashionable this season and for wear on short trips by water, are practical as well as most attractive. The model pictured is of white serge with collar and cuffs of black satin and buttons of black bone and white enamel; but the suit should be built of white or natural linen of white mohair—the last material being especially desirable for traveling since it does not soil easily.

TO STAR IN LONDON'S FAMOUS PLAYHOUSE.

Mrs. Edith Kelly Gould, London.—Frank Jay Gould's desire.

Spring Turbans

Everybody may be pleased in the new spring millinery. There are hats large and hats small, but more especially hats small. There are hats soft and collapsible, and there are pressed shapes. There are hats of braid on wire frames and hats of braid on no frames. There are hats grave and hats gay, and there are hats expensive. There may be hats inexpensive, but they are hardly classed as millinery. Here is a good place to observe and point out that it is only in the west one may find genteel looking hats of good materials at moderate prices. This is accounted for by the fact that the grade of intelligence of the millinery worker of the west is apt to be much higher than that of the worker on the Atlantic coast. Taste and intelligence show in the hat. The young ladies in a western house look as if they had graduated from a high school or academy, and naturally have an advantage in many ways over the young person recently belched forth from the storeroom. Therefore, if you are looking for real millinery in a not expensive hat, look close home if you live west of the Alleghenies. Your millinery will be less frothy, of better material and workmanship and incomparably more ladylike.

The hats shown here show a braid hat, a pressed shape and a soft wire-less hat. They represent real millinery. They are not posed at a drunken angle, nor set too primly straight. They have style and are very generally becoming, no matter what style is preferred.

BREAD AND MEAT COMBINE WELL.

The best combination with meat is bread, whole wheat bread being under all circumstances the best. The digestion of bread is nearest to that of meat, and coarse bread, not fresh, facilitates elimination, which is most important when meat is eaten. The worst combinations with meat are sugar, milk, fruits, green vegetables and oil, which digest in a different manner. The carnivorous animals do not eat sweets or vegetables nor milk after they reach maturity, but the dog will live well on biscuit made from corn or wheat protein, the nearest to flesh.

Stop Experimenting!

Take A 'Cascaret'

Nearly all our ills come through inactive liver and bowels. Millions of folks keep feeling good with Cascarets.

One must keep the bowels clean. Do it just the same as you keep your skin clean. Not by severe applications, applied at rare intervals. But by gentle and regular efforts. It pays immensely.

Many people dread physic. They think of castor oil, salts and cathartics. They shrink from the after-effects—grimacing and weakness. So they postpone the dose until they are costive or bilious. Then they do the cleaning in a heroic way. That is all wrong.

Cascarets are a gentle laxative. They are just as effective as anything else, and more natural. And they are pleasant—a candy. They are made to carry with you. Take one just as soon as you need it. You'll know. The result is your bowels are always active. You always feel at your best. Try a 10 cent box of Cascarets. You'll never again go without them.

Red Blood For Pale People!

A big supply of red blood corpuscles is what helps to make any man or woman have a healthy, pink complexion and every red line. Respect to point and powder are totally unnecessary and besides that, are harmful. Three grain hygienic tablets, if used regularly for several months, seem to create a greatly added number of millions to the red and white corpuscles of the blood, and not only improve the color, but add increased flesh to the thin and frail body. These tablets promote assimilation, absorption and digestion, and thus speedily aid to nature's forces transform to complexion and figure. They are prescribed by physicians, but being of a perfectly harmless character, self-administration is being followed by many who obtain them direct from any well stocked apothecary shop.

Economy and Dress.

Saving Ways with the Small Things of Dress.

A WOMAN can save quite as much in the way she wears and cares for her clothes as she can by economical buying. In the little things of dress, this is sometimes particularly noteworthy. Because they cost little, little attention is given them, and thus they eat up the dress allowance before one is aware of it. It is a theory with the French that dress is never a matter of money spent largely, but of money spent wisely and tastefully.

Economy in underclothes is as much a matter of choosing the right kinds and of care as it is initial cost. Many women think if they put the most of their money into a suit and a hat, that they are planning their wardrobe to the best advantage. But if their undergarments are not well chosen, the effect of the dress may be ruined. A much simpler dress over properly fitting underclothes and corsets will be much more effective. It is the best economy, sometimes, to spend one-third of the allowance on the dress itself and the other two-thirds on the underclothes and corsets.

Chic in dress is an affair more than surface deep, a fact which few women really consider. For any dress to fit well, it is indispensable that each thing it goes over must fit well.

For this reason, the cut of the underclothing, their fit and quality are matters to which the truly economical woman should devote as much care and attention as to any other detail of dress. Proportion must be maintained in making underclothes. It is useless to hope that the back or armhole of blouse or coat can lie smoothly over a bulging combination suit or corset cover.

The woman who wants her clothes to yield their utmost in wear and looks should grudge no time or pains spent in being sure that each article of her underclothes is made to fit her. She would never think of accepting a garment which fitted around the shoulders, but which bulged in the waist and hung in wrinkles about the hips. Her petticoats must not only hang well in the matter of length. If they gather in an unsightly bundle at the back, or wrinkle or pull up in the front, they are not the right petticoat. They must be made right.

Not only must the underclothes be bought thus with care, but they must be put on with care. Adjustment is everything. No hard lines or wrinkles must show at the waist, no hard bunch of gathers should fall at the back. What fulness there is must be put in its right place.

All this care means more in the way of economy than is often realized. The fact that there is neither pull nor wrinkle, stretched seam nor strained lace and embroidery, means that the underclothes will wear, if their fit and quality are quite right, far longer than less wisely chosen garments would.

A little outlay of time and taste, a feeling of pride in having things right all the way through, are economy in the long run, and likewise, the keynote of distinctness in dress.

ENGLAND'S QUEEN MOTHER.

June 20.—Victoria, Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and Empress of India, was born in Kensington Palace, London, May 21, 1819, and died at Osborne, Isle of Wight, Jan. 22, 1901. She was the only child of Edward, Duke of Kent, and fourth daughter of George III. On the death of her uncle William IV, on June 20, 1837 she was raised to the throne, less than a month after she had attained her majority. She elected to be known by the name of Victoria. She was married to her cousin Prince Albert, youngest son of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, on February 10, 1840, and a bill was passed making Albert regent in case of the death of the queen. On March 16, 1861, her mother died and this was followed in the same year by growing affliction, the death of her husband. Through all the years of her reign, the wars and changes of administrations that fell to her lot, Victoria always retained the respect of the world for her womanly qualities and sympathy. Her reign of 63 years, 7 months and 2 days is the longest in England history, and she outlived all British sovereigns being at her death three days older than George III.

INTERESTING DATA AS TO THE TROOPS

CHAPLAIN ACCOMPANIES THE
BATTERY OF REGULARS FROM FORT SHERIDAN.

CAMP AT FAIR GROUNDS

Milwaukee Battery and Infantry Have
Two Other Camps in Different Parts of the City.

It is perhaps an interesting fact to note that Battery F of the Fifth Field Artillery that comes to Janesville for July 2d, 4th and 5th, is one of the crack light batteries of the United States Army. The battery and band came to Janesville at the direct orders of General Leonard Wood, who is stationed in Washington and to whom Congressman Cooper appeared in behalf of Janesville.

It was due solely to the fact that the state encampment of the United States War Veterans is to be held in Janesville during these three days that the battery and band were ordered here. President Taft himself made a personal request in behalf of Janesville, as did Senator Stephenson and Senator La Follette, and it was only through persistent efforts that the rule of the War Department was broken and the soldiers ordered here.

One of the interesting persons with the battery, who will march overland from Ft. Sheridan in order to be here for the three days, is Chaplain Andrew C. Murphy, who is stationed at Ft. Sheridan. Chaplain Murphy writes the committee he is to be here and that much interest is shown by the regulars over their prospective visit.

Captain Westfall, commander of Battery A, Milwaukee W. N. G., writes under the date of Saturday last that every man in his battery, one hundred and two in all, is most anxious to come and that he needs almost the full quota to arrive here with him on the battery special Monday afternoon, July 2d. The understanding of this battery and the pitching of the camp promises to be an interesting feature.

The Milwaukee Infantry special will reach Janesville later in the evening on Monday and the five companies will at once march to their camp grounds, where they will go into a regular encampment. Beloit, Watertown, Ft. Atkinson and Monroe, the other four infantry companies will arrive during the day Monday or early Tuesday morning.

The Grand Parade and Grand Review of one third of the fighting force of the state's militia by Governor McAdams and Congressman Cooper, will be the main feature of the afternoon on Tuesday, aside from the sham battle, which will occur at the fair grounds directly in front of the Grand Stand and will be most unique. The arrangements for the sham battle are in the hands of the three majors of the First W. N. G. Major John Joseph, Major Peter Haseck and Major Rossmann, together with Captain Hanson of this city.

All plans made are for strictly a military demonstration, which will be the only one of the kind held in the state this year and will bring together more soldiers at one time than even the state encampment of the three regiments at Camp Douglas later in the summer.

"So, of a pig, and fool of a thousand fool!" cried the Prince, his eyes blazing at the low-caste Hindoo. "What misbegotten dard told you that you were fit to be intrusted with a man's task. Your place is among the women, and, even there, you would require a guardian to see that you did not exchange rufous for copper coins."

All remained motionless, as one about whom lightning has flashed, and who feels his only chance of safety lies in escaping the notice of the next bolt. The Swami signaled to Kananda, and the Prince, following the habit of the Occident, seated himself on the divan in Oriental fashion, and calmed himself with deep draughts from the pipe that bubbled on a low table. As he smoked, the severity of his features relaxed a little, and at length he recovered his composure so far as to take pity on the exceedingly uncomfortable Ali.

"Rise, dog!" he said, "and give us, if you can, an explanation of the disgraceful bungling on this simple mission."

What explanation the servant might have mustered is a problem. Before he could collect his thoughts, the electric bell of the outer door burred sharply. Kananda, the stem of the pipe in his hand, looked toward the curtain expectantly, and the Swami signaled to Ali to answer the summons without. The servant glided, ghost-like, from the room, returning shortly with the announcement that a visitor desired audience with the famed Oriental scholar. The Prince disappeared between the portieres of a small door opposite the main entrance of the room, the priest nodded "slowly to the servant, and the next moment Ali ushered into the presence of the sage the man who had had the temerity to let himself be attacked in place of him the Easterners had desired to search.

"I am a special reporter for 'The Times,'" said Britz. "I understand you are a scholar of distinction in your native land. I would like to have a talk with you for a Sunday story."

The Swami's face wreathed into an interrogation point.

"My good friend," he said, "you have come to the wrong person. I am not in the least interested in fiction. Scientific research, with perhaps a glimpse now and then of the psychic, limits my activity in literature."

"You don't understand," said Britz. "Newspaper men call everything a 'story.' I should have said an article—an interview, you know."

"Well," said the Oriental indulgently, "it is not the policy of the propaganda to seek publicity through the columns of the press; but, if I can serve you in any way, command me."

"Well, you see, Swami," said Britz, "everything pertaining to that illustrious land of yours is of interest to Americans; your religion, your politics, your customs, your women, your jewels, your boundless wealth. Everything you can tell me about India is sure to interest our readers."

"If I am to tell you everything about India," said the Swami, "we may as well make ourselves comfortable."

He signed to Ali again, and, rising with much dignity, he placed a chair at the disposal of his visitor.

"The East is a pretty big subject," said the Swami, and then he spent many minutes sketching Oriental ways and thoughts for the entertainment of his visitor. To follow him would be to recapitulate the history of Hindostan from centuries before the British invasion. When he had finished, Britz knew enough about India to fill the pages of all the Sunday papers of New York; but this was not what the detective wanted.

"Your women evidently lead a pretty secluded life," he said, "but I suppose they have their compensations—their music, embroidery, delicacies, games—by the way, Swami, jewels figure largely in your religion, don't they?"

"The same inscrutable gleam again flickered in the eyes of the scholar. "It would be difficult to make you understand in what way they do," he answered, "in the ordinary commercial sense, they do not. We of India say, that would deceive anyone with the cruden knowledge."

"But the Maharajah was undoubtedly copied," pursued Britz. "If you have read the newspapers, you know it was through the discovery of that fact that Mrs. Missioner learned her necklace had been stolen."

All the cordiality of the Swami vanished. He seemed to wrap himself in the impenetrable dignity of his caste, and he dismissed the subject with the conclusive remark of his race, "I have spoken." In spite of the most adroit efforts of his visitor, and despite interrogations direct and indirect, he could not be induced to discuss the subject again.

Britz, somewhat baffled, finally led the conversation into other channels by bethinking himself of his role in time to ask the Swami the purpose and probable length of his stay in New York.

"I have no objection to telling you," answered the priest, "that I am here to spread the propaganda, to turn the lamp of the true faith upon the gloom of your Western civilization." He continued, "Yes, I am making proselytes! I am conducting gatherings of seekers after the Light, and I am instructing all who come to me with open minds and honest hearts."

Britz picked up his hat and coat with a reluctant air, and took leave of the Oriental with not over-profuse expressions of gratitude for his reception. The scholar struck the gong, the Hindoo servant appeared in the farther doorway, and in a few seconds the faint echoes of the visitor's footsteps ended in the quiet closing of the street door.

Kananda, with a carriage skin to the swaggar of the English Guardsman, re-entered the room and looked at the Swami quizzically.

"You need not put yourself to the trouble of looking through the Sunday papers," said the Swami. "There will be nothing about this interview in 'The Times.'"

"No," returned Kananda. "I heard the reporter say he wanted the facts for the next issue of his Sunday supplement."

"He is not interested in supplements," replied the priest, "equals are his specialty. When he interests himself in a story he begins at the 'continued' line. He is not a reporter."

The Prince looked at him inquiringly.

"Nor is he the man Ali should have searched," continued the sage. "He is one of the cleverest detectives in New York—Britz, of Headquarters!"

Britz, of Headquarters, did not waste any time in gloating over the result of his interview with the Brahmin. In the first place, he did not consider that he had scored anything like a signal victory. He knew enough of the subtleties of the Orient to be aware that such grains of truth as had come to him in the Swami's answers had been merged into a voluminous fabric of mendacity—well, call it diplomacy—and that to winnow out the few facts vouchsafed to him was a task for the cloistered seclusion of his own room, supplemented by the silent help of many books of reference. But he was ready to take it for granted that the Brahmin had spoken truly in regard to the difficulty of imitating diamonds of great size. There was no question the Maharajah had been copied; how closely he could not say, as he had unfortunately never had a glimpse of the false stone. The questions that glimped their way into his brain were: Where was the copying done; how was it done; and, of course, correlatively, by whom was it done?

It was a busy quarter of an hour Detective-Leutenant Britz passed in his Mulberry Street office. Awaiting him was a cablegram from Logan, saying briefly he was trailing all the workmen who had taken part in the manufacture of the paste Missioner necklace, and that none of them had left Paris.

Britz frowned slightly as he read the message, then with a heavy fountain pen that fairly raced over the paper, and, addressing his far-away assistant by his cable word, he wrote: "Logan, Paris. Was Maharajah made there, too?"

Britz tapped a bell and looked up as a Headquarters patrolman opened the door.

"Hush this down to the Western Union office," he said. "Take it yourself, and see that it goes at once."

It was when his thoughts were tangled in the tightest of knots that a card was brought to him by the twin brother of the heavy-footed bluecoat who even then was supposed on his way to the Western Union office with the cable to Logan.

"Show him in," said Britz after a glance at the name; and, as his visitor entered, he swung his feet from the desk, advancing halfway to the door, and extended his hand cordially.

"How do you do, doctor?" he said. "I hope I see you cheerful."

A wan smile broke the fixity of the doctor's countenance for an instant, and he shook his head slightly.

"I don't see how there can be any cheer for me," he said, "as long as that poor girl is a prisoner in the Tombs. When are we going to get her out?"

"I know just how you feel about it, doctor," said Britz sympathetically, "but you'll have to leave that in my hands for the present. Miss Holcomb must stay where she is awhile longer."

"But surely," persisted the physician, "it cannot be necessary to leave her there forever to establish her innocence. You know she is guiltless; I know it; Mrs. Missioner knows it; and it would not take much to bring all her acquaintances to the same view. Why must we wait?"

"Now, let us talk," said Britz. "You and I have fenced long enough along this line; let's get down to business. You know something about chemistry, that's certain. Do you know enough about it to tell me whether any progress has been made in recent years in the manufacture of paste jewels?"

"Can't say I dot haven't been much interested in that line until this outrageous attempt to prove Miss Holcomb a thief."

"Well, it's about time you did," said Britz meaningly. "I don't see what good it is to a girl to have an M. D. for a lover if he can't be of any more use to her in a case of this sort than Binks of the Hardware Club, or Jinks of the Retail Grocers' Association. Now, you know how these false gems are made, don't you?"

"I know pretty well," and Fitch gave him the formula with which the minute men of the jewel trade were familiar for purposes of self-protection.

BIG THINGS OF THE WORLD

The tallest monument is the Washington obelisk, 555 feet high; but the largest monolith is in Karnak, Egypt, being 106 feet high. The highest chimney, measuring 474 feet, is in Glasgow.

The largest aqueduct in use is the Croton of New York, which is 38 miles long, but the longest ever built is in Italy, 360 miles in length.

The deepest coal mine is near Lambert, Belgium, 2,500 feet deep; the biggest dock is at Cardiff, Wales, and the strongest electric light is at the Sydney Lighthouse, Australia; while the largest lighthouse is at Cape Henry, Va., being 195 feet high.

The greatest bank is the Bank of England, in London; the oldest college is University college, Oxford, founded in 1520; the largest library, the National, in Paris, containing nearly 3,000,000 volumes.

The largest theatre is the Paris Opera house, covering three acres; largest bronze statue, that of Peter the Great in St. Petersburg, weighing 1,100 tons. The biggest stone statue is in Japan, 44 feet high; the largest college is in Cairo, with over 10,000 students and 310 teachers. Damascus has the honor of being the oldest city. The most costly book in the world is a Hebrew Bible owned by the German government, which a few years ago refused the pope's offer of $125,000 for it. The most costly medicine a few years ago was metallic gallium, which sold for $15,000 a pound; but radium is now the priceless gem of the mineral world, selling for more than that price an ounce.

Though orchids frequently bring prices that make the poor man stagger, the highest price for a single flower was given for a tulip in Amsterdam by an enthusiast, who paid $250,000 for it.

YOUR NEIGHBOR'S EXPERIENCE

How you may profit by it. Take Foley Kidney Pills. Mr. E. G. Whitling, 360 Willow St., Akron, O., says: "For some time I had a very serious case of kidney trouble and I suffered with backaches and dizzy headaches. I had specks floating before my eyes and I felt all tired out and miserable. I saw Foley Kidney Pills advertised and got a bottle and took them according to directions and results showed almost at once. The pain and dizzy headaches left me, my eye-sight became clear and today I can say I am a well woman, thanks to Foley Kidney Pills." Badger Drug Co.

Diamonds That Explode.

In his cantor lecture at the London Royal Society of Arts Dr. A. E. Tutton, the leading expert on crystallography, said that diamonds were probably formed from fused carbon at great unknown temperatures and under such pressures as could only exist at enormous depths below the surface of the earth.

When they came within the reach of the miner they had traveled upwards, probably by volcanic action, for a long way. It was well known that the roller from pressure afforded in this way caused many diamonds to break, as the volcanic rocks in which they were first imbedded decayed into the famous blue clay. Workmen in the Kimberley mines knew that diamonds often exploded soon after being dug out of the earth.

This explosion was greatly assisted by heat, and many accidents had occurred by the Kaffirs hiding newly found diamonds in their mouths. The lecture was illustrated by experiments with ten diamond crystals lent by Sir W. Crookes.

A Sermon Syndicate.

A method of sermon collaboration which may exercise great influence upon the vexed problem of church attendance was recently tried at Los Angeles. Nine ministers of that city got together and produced one sermon and on the next Sunday nine congregations listened to the same sermon, one of the best they had ever heard.

Such a plan makes good use of diversified gifts. One preacher may be skilful in the use of illustrations, another particularly happy in literary and historical allusions, a third a master in theology, another gifted with evangelistic fervor, and so on through all the elements that may enter into a sermon.—Leslie's Weekly.

To Be Perfectly Accurate.

The almanac tells us what the weather will be like next year, the government forecaster tells us what it will be like tomorrow, but for perfect accuracy it is necessary to consult the man who tells us what it was like yesterday.
